Workhouse Management. Tong in their devotion to Science, medical are occasionally known to inoculate themse with virulent poisons; a few years are, it be remembered that an enthusiastic student of glier varieties of social life went before the on a collier voyage, to get some accurate ledge of the actual facts of nautical extends of the actual facts of nautical extends to the daring and the noble thirst realities which prompted a contributer to call Mall Gazette to face the unknown horrors wight with the casuals. He deserves the at credit for his philanthropic spirit. It is only in this way that the inner and real mana of ment of workhouses and hospitals and harracks can be found out. An official inspection of a workhouse is much like the half-year's examination of a Clapham Common academy. To enlarge upon the revolting personal trials to which in the interests of the public, and from a high sense of duty, the visitor to the Lamb th Casual Wards willingly subjected himself, would be superfluous. It is easy enough for some of us sitting at home at case to indite caseys, fluent or otherwise, on workhouse management; but it requires a spirit not given to every amateur phi- Rent moderate. lanthropist to don the vilest pauner's rage, to plunge into that greasy bath steaming with the filth of a score of discused and luathsome vagrunts. and to face that horrid bag of straw plastered with blood, which he so graphically describes. Thanks to this pratical philosopher, who has thus applied the Baconian method of experiment to one of our social evils we are in a position to pronounce emphatically that workhouse management, as it is, is always open to enormous and seandalous abuses. Here is a faint, simple and large enough, and incapable of disproof. But when we are asked to go further and when the contributor to the Pal Mall Gazette proceeds to tell us that we may all draw the moral from his interesting though ghastly narra-tive, we own to some difficulties. This, however, is but a surface lesson. This particular night's admirably suited for a Banking institution or large work was just an unfortunate accident of the sys- Mercantile firm. tom, which had the singular ill-luck to be found out. And it can be easily remedied—in a cortain | if 271 Hongkong, 10th February, 1866. sense, that is. The Poor-law Board can come down upon the Quardians of every London workhouse, and compel them to find or create accom- MHE House in Wellington Street; (formerly modation in ample excess of all the capricious | L occupied by the late Con ral Police Station.) with a comple of hundred barrack beds, each in Offices. A few worders, armed with summary power and a good whip to suppress indecency and uproar, are easily provided. There is no difficulty whatever in making the casosi l wards quite as clean and orderly and comfortable as a prison. Indeed this is the ideal aimed at. Sir George Grey, and Sir Richard Mayne, and other high officials, visited the Poplar Casual Wards at night, some ten days ugo, and found them in the highest state of efficiency. They are Grounds at Poktoolum, now occupied by Messes. very superior to the common lodging-houses, and SIBMasien & Co. ar beyond the old Refuges for the Destitute. And—which seems to be the point of the favour able comparison—those | Casual Wards at | Poplar are in the hands of the police, and not managed hy the Guardians, though they are on the Guardians' premises. The police dissue orders for L admittance" to the Poplar Chaust Wards; which having a two-storied detached Granite Godown. means, of course, that they exercise the discretion of refusing admittance to known vagrants and thieves, represented by the ingenious young gentleman who presided over the Swearing Club at Lambeth. Bo far all is easy enough. It is a mero matter of money to provide excellent ac- really newly erected commedious Dwelling commodation for all possible regues when they HOUSE containing eight Rooms, Kitchen, take a fancy to change their lodgings; and it is a Coolies Rooms, etc., also Stubling and Garden mere matter of money to provide warders and to maintain discipline in the night harracks. But Thomsett, West Point, between Bonham and some other considerations come in here. We must have a uniform system. Lambeth and terms apply to Mr. Thus. M. BARRINGTON, 38. Poplar won't work together, and this the Wyndhau Street, casuals soon find out. Lambeth is easy 16 2031 Hongke and loose, and confortable in its discomforts; it permits unufterable license and abomination and is therefore poplar. Poplar is austere add sharp and severe in its comfortable acrangements, i and is therefore unpopular with the tramps, use of the Wharf now completed, where vessels What, then, so easy as to bring all the Casual can be ladened and discharged. Wards under the Poplar type? It has only this trifling difficulty, that to carry out thoroughly this reform of our London workhousen would in volve the total destruction of the present Guardian system. Guardians and the police management cannot work together. And of course thoughtful people are coming to the conclusion that the Guardian and Local Workhouse system is a total failure, and must sooner or later be abelished.

As it is, the decent poor suffer, and the profligate | poor, as in these Lumbeth night orgics, are en- on the 1st February. couraged in vice and profligacy. The Guardiane not very unnaturally, have but one principal of nction-namely, to spend as little as possible. The workhouse officials, being appointed by the Guardians, naturally desire to make things pleasent. As soon as a medical officer, or a health officer, or a nuisance inspector, or the master of a 2 745 at Wanchi, having Water frontage and Shop situated in Central Market Nos. 7 and 8, workhouse, or a chaplain, or a paid nurse, hints about 25000 Piculs holding capacity for one or having never become security for any boats and to the Guardians that more liberality is necessary. or that Whitehall must be appealed to, his or her situation becomes untenable. All this is not to he wondered at; indeed, it is unavoidable. And nothing less than a total change of system will | remedy the constantly recurring avils of work. house management in its hospital dejectments, in its school departments, in its casual wards, and | 21 and 25, with Offices. Comprador and Serin its out-door relief. Till we have dethroned vants Rooms, and Cookroom, having a Capacity one of the idels of the British mind, "the great of 2500 Tons each. Angle-Saxon principal of local self-government." and of the unpaid management of local concerns, we shall never have a proper nonagoment of the poor. This is one, and a most important, moral to which the revelations of the Pall Mall Gazette writer points. But there is something further. The object of the Houseless and at present in the occupation of Mesers Poor Act was to prevent the scandal of any bu- Ellersmonar and Samuell. man being, however worthless and wicked, dying l of cold and hunger in the streets of Landon. A noble feeling, of course; against which, however, we must set the evils of our remedy for this sad contingency. As things are, we spond our money in providing house-room such as it is, and food auch as it is, for men who can contrive to spend their own money on theatres and tohacco, and who avail themselves of a public dale in the parish Prytancium only when they are out of work-that work being the habitual practice of robbery. But the question arises, are we bound to discharge the duties of public has pitality to such persons as the engaging " Kay " of the " Rummy Stories" and the "Swearing Club"? As we understand the Poplar management. Kay's card of admittance would have been refused there. The chanees are, then, that if the Puplar management had l been the rule at all the London Unions, Kny, being in an advanced stage of concumption, would prebubly, on such a night as that of Thursday week, have died in the streets. Are we ready to face such a deplorable possibility? Some prople certainly are; and what we now know about essuals will force a good many persons, i they are driven to the alternative, to say it is betfor that such wretches should perish than be helped in their depravities at our cast. Such a Albany Southward of Mr W. H. Alexander's reand conclusion is undoubtedly to be resisted. Under the old and coarse view of things, which provided "that, if any would not work neither should be eat." we suppose Kay might have starand. But, though there is scripture for it, we assume that it is out of the question to allow even the blackest villain to starve in public. What then remains? The objection to the Lambeth Casual Wards is their disorder and bad management, the recommendation of the Poplar Wards is their comfort and superiority to anything to be found in common lodging-houses; which seems to come to this, that we ought to make the Casual Wards attractive rather than offensive-attractive, that is, to the deserving poor, but absolutely closed against the criminal paupers. Yet the nower of refusing admittance now exercised by the police at Poplar, however desirable in itself seems to be hardly consistent with the prolimsed object of the Houseless Poor Act. From which it seems to follow that the Act has broken down; that the co-ordinate, or rather conflicting jurgedictions of the local authorities and of the Peor-law Board cannot go on much longer; and therefore, that a total change of system, much b unighted. And whether a total change of system. at least in London, can stop short of puling an end to all the unpaid local management of the Guardians, of transferring much larger and responsible powers to the police and Governmen and of attempting to extirpate the dangerous with every man who cannot show that he is carn-ing his livelihood, is a consideration which we leave at present. Only we would remind the worshippers of "our Angle-Saxon institutions" that they must be prepared, sooner or late, for some very rude shocks indeed. A good many
